Thank you for helping us care for dogs and cats and find them forever homes. Our journey started with the incredible vision of local community members in 1928 who provided services for displaced animals. Over the years, SoHumane has grown and expanded its mission and programs - all with the goal of serving more pets and their people.

This spring the SoHumane team is busy with many things including adoption events, fundraising, and community outreach just to mention a few. I never knew that working so hard could be so rewarding.

The days can be filled with overwhelming joy and sadness all at the same time. There is no greater joy than seeing an adopted animal on its way to a new home. I have to stop myself from running out into the parking lot every time I see a family leaving with a pet they have just adopted.

When the Saving Train arrives it is heartbreaking to see the frightened animals, but joyful knowing that at SoHumane they are safe for as long as it takes for them to find a new home. While they are here they are loved and well cared for.

I am so incredibly grateful to be part of this amazing organization. I want to take this opportunity to say thank you - to SoHumane supporters, adopters, volunteers and staff, for making the Southern Oregon Humane Society such a wonderful resource for pets and people in need. We face many challenges, but with your support we have hope and determination!

All my best,

Karen Evans
 Executive Director

This June a group of rescued pups will be featured at the Precision Electric Find Your Love Match Adoption Event.

Solving Litter Box Problems

Jennifer Wicklund, Doctor of Veterinary Medicine

There are dozens of reasons a cat or dog may be surrendered to SoHumane: families are moving, babies are born, allergies, lack of time, divorce or a death in the family. However, one consistent reason that cats arrive at our facility is due to “litter box problems.” Litter box problems can be complex, but it helps to rule out some common causes.

Jennifer Wicklund, DVM

If your cat stops using their litter box appropriately, the first thing to do is contact your veterinarian. A number of different medical conditions can interfere with normal feline urination and defecation. Medical causes for inappropriate urination include a urinary tract infection, feline interstitial cystitis (an inflammatory condition of the bladder), or a urinary blockage. These conditions can all be successfully treated and allow your cat to overcome inappropriate urination. Your veterinarian may also suggest medications that are helpful if your cat suffers from stress or anxiety.

If medical causes are ruled out, it's time to assess the litter box itself. Consider:

- Is the litter box being kept clean? Many cats will not use a dirty box.
- Is the litter box big enough? Small boxes are uncomfortable for big cats.
- Do you have enough litter boxes? One box per cat plus one is the rule.
- Is there enough litter in the box? A depth of one to two inches is the norm.
- Can your cat easily and comfortably get into the box at all times?
- Is the box in a high-traffic area or uncomfortable for your cat due to noise, darkness, or odor?

- Are you using a box liner or a lid? Many cats do not like either of these features.
- Is a litter box available on each level of a multi-story house?

If your litter box seems to meet all the right criteria, next consider the actual litter. There are dozens of litter materials available, and they have pros and cons, especially as viewed by your cat. It may take a while to find your cat's preferred litter type.

If, despite considering and addressing all of the above, your cat continues to choose inappropriate areas for urination or defecation, your cat's problem may be a behavior issue. He or she may be reacting to stress or disturbances in the household, such as relationship difficulties, being left alone for too long, or in-home renovations. In addition, multi-cat households can be stressful. If you suspect this is the case, ensure that each cat can access food, water and a litter box without coming into contact with the other cats in the household. Commercially available pheromone sprays and/or diffusers also help soothe anxious cats and decrease social stress. With your veterinarian's help and by following a systematic approach to your cat's litter box issues, it is possible to resolve frustrating litter box problems and have a happier cat and a happier household!

Volunteer!

SoHumane finds homes for more than 1,200 dogs and cats each year. Volunteers help make providing exceptional care possible for these pets.

Dog walkers and the cat crew supply enrichment opportunities and exercise animals every day.

Student volunteers participate in Pet Partners, the PALS Program and the Reading Program.

Adoption and event volunteers are the support team for monthly and annual activities.

Volunteers help with maintaining the campus grounds and work on special projects.

SoHumane volunteers are awesome!

Visit sohumane.org/volunteer or contact Misty Roberts, Volunteer Coordinator, at 541-779-3215 x 101 for more information on how you can save lives by volunteering.

Foster!

Kitten fostering makes up the bulk of SoHumane's fostering needs. Kitten season brings hundreds of kittens. Many of these kittens are under eight weeks of age and require placement in foster homes. Foster families that nurture kittens allow SoHumane to save hundreds of kittens every year!

Foster volunteers provide a temporary home environment for kittens, puppies, dogs and cats that need a shelter break, time to grow before adoption, are receiving specialized veterinary care, or who are healing after surgeries.

Interested in fostering? Contact Miranda Ahrens, Community Support Coordinator, at 541-779-3215 x 104. Visit sohumane.org/foster or stop by the Adoption Center, 2910 Table Rock Road, Medford, Oregon for more information.

Your legacy for them

Planned giving is a wonderful way to support the pets who are homeless at the Southern Oregon Humane Society. A planned gift to SoHumane is a meaningful way to carry forward your compassion and concern for the animals.

I would be glad to discuss any planned giving option with you — in confidence and without obligation. A legacy gift will provide stable, long-term funding that will continue your commitment to helping animals long into the future.

Please feel free to contact me by phone at 541-779-3215 x 110 or send an email to karen@sohumane.org. Making a planned gift can change lives and be one of life's most gratifying experiences.

Saving Lives Since 1928

"My darling Rusty (Fred) is the perfect kitty! He is easy-going, affectionate, smart, and sensitive. I struck gold with Rusty. He's everything I'd hoped for in a new feline companion. Thank you for your services finding 'lost' animals their new forever homes!"

Mission Statement
